Health Precautions and Vaccinations
Before embarking on their journey, guests must ensure they have received all necessary vaccinations and taken relevant health precautions. This includes obtaining any vaccines recommended or required for the specific country or region they plan to visit.

Identification of Pre-existing Medical Conditions
Guests are required to take proactive steps, such as consulting with medical professionals, to determine if they have any pre-existing medical conditions that could affect their ability to travel or participate in planned activities. This includes both known and unknown health issues that may arise during the trip.

Notification of Pre-existing Medical Conditions to Tour Operator
It is the responsibility of guests to inform Tour Operator about any pre-existing medical conditions they have or health issues that could impact their travel arrangements or activities before or at time of booking. This allows Tour Operator to make necessary accommodations or adjustments to ensure the safety and well-being of the guest during the trip. We may request a medical assessment from a qualify medical practitioner. This allows Tour Operator to gauge if we are able to accommodate your pre-existing condition. If your health issues are such that we cannot make accommodations, you will be refunded any price you have paid minus an administration fee of $XXX If you fail to inform us of any medical condition before booking and Tour Operator cannot make accommodations, then it will be considered a cancellation by the guest and all rules of that section (Section 4: Cancellations by Guests) shall apply.

Notification of New Medical Conditions to Tour Operator
It is the responsibility of the guests to inform Tour Operator about any new medical conditions they have been diagnosed with that may impact the usual booking of the treat. Tour Operator may also request a medical assessment by a medical professional so we can see how the condition may affect the booking.
If the guest requires assistance we cannot provide or does not provide the assessment when asked the booking will be cancelled as if it was cancelled by the guest, as such all rules in that section (Section 4: Cancellations by Guests) shall apply.

Compliance with Vaccination Requirements and Local Regulations
Guests must adhere to all vaccination requirements for entry into their destination country. Additionally, they are expected to comply with any local regulations or health measures imposed by authorities, which may include testing requirements or quarantine protocols. It is recommended that the guest be fully vaccinated against Covid-19 with a vaccine approved by the Therapeutic Goods Admissions. This is to reduce health risks to both you as well as others you may encounter on tour. Failure to comply with vaccination requirements or local regulations may result in guests being unable to continue with their planned travel arrangements. In such cases, guests are responsible for any associated expenses, such as rebooking fees or additional accommodation costs.

Tour Operator's Limitations Regarding Local Government Policies
Tour Operator does not have the authority to override or modify local government policies related to health and safety measures, including testing or quarantine requirements. Guests should be aware that Tour Operator cannot guarantee any changes to these policies and must abide by them during their trip.

Tour Operator's Limitations Regarding Local Government Policies
Tour Operator does not have the authority to override or modify local government policies related to health and safety measures, including testing or quarantine requirements. Guests should be aware that Tour Operator cannot guarantee any changes to these policies and must abide by them during their trip.

Unforeseen Circumstances During Travel
If guests encounter refusal of carriage by an airline or other common carrier, refusal of accommodation by a hotel, refusal of entry by the country's government or exclusion from the trip by Tour Operator or its suppliers due to illness, suspected illness, or failure to meet required tests or vaccination requirements, reasonable assistance will be provided. If the guest has already commenced their trip, Tour Operator will assist in arranging alternative travel arrangements or facilitating continuation of the trip, all but at the guest's expense. However, if the trip has not yet commenced, Tour Operator regrets that it will be unable to provide such assistance. it's important to note that Tour Operator will not be liable to refund the cost of the trip or any part of it due to commitments already made to suppliers and significant work in preparation of your trip. Additionally, Tour Operator will not be held responsible for any other losses incurred by the guest in connection with the booking, such as airfares or visa expenses, if they are prevented from commencing or continuing their trip under these circumstances. To mitigate financial risks associated with cancellations and disruptions, guests are strongly advised to purchase travel insurance promptly after paying their deposit.

Obligations & Liability
Tour Operator purchases transportation, accommodations, activities, and other services from independent suppliers within the country the trip is for. Tour Operator has no direct control over these independent suppliers and the guest acknowledges that Tour Operator is only responsible for choosing reliable and reputable suppliers to provide these services to you. When booking a trip the guest enters into a contract with Tour Operator, Tour Operator then purchases various products using the payment for the guest. When this happens the guest also enters a contract with the independent supplier who supplies these products such as travel or accommodation., Tour Operator will not be liable for any loss, damage, personal injury, or delay caused by independent suppliers. Any claims a guest may have must be taken up with the independent suppliers themselves.

There are inherent risks to all travel but particularly some of the activities that Tour Operator offers. These trips and activities can take place in remote locations with little or no access to medical facilities. To the full extent of the law Tour Operator assumes no liability for any such risks the guest takes during these activities as you are fully informed of the inherent risk in participating.
Some activities have a particularly high risk of injury, illness or death. we are not liable for any injuries, illness or death caused by undertaking these risky recreational activities. Passport and Visa
Tour Operator is not responsible for any visas required to enter into the destination country for your booking. You may apply online for a visa to Sri Lanka through this link: http://www.eta.gov.lk
Before making your bookings, you must have a valid passport for each guest member attending a booking. All names provided to Tour Operator must be passport accurate as many of our suppliers and providers require passport accurate information. You also consent for us to share your passport identification with any suppliers who require it. A valid passport is also required to enter any foreign country so be sure to always keep it on you.

Accommodations
Given the ever-changing landscape of the travel industry, there may arise occasions where we must replace initially planned accommodations, such as hotels or vessels, with alternatives of similar or superior quality. While we strive to keep such substitutions to a minimum, you recognize that these adjustments do not constitute significant alterations to the overall experience.

Dietary requirements
If a guest has special dietary requirements that must be submitted to Tour Operator in 7 days of booking your trip. We will make every effort to convey your requests to the appropriate suppliers. However, we cannot assure that all requests will be accommodated by the suppliers. It remains your responsibility to verify that meals and beverages are free from allergens. We explicitly absolve ourselves of any liability for meals or beverages containing allergens, except in cases of negligence by Tour Operator
